The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-14 and 20-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Kihara et al (Cancer Res. 61: 6474 (2001)). Kihara et al teaches analysis of gene expression profiles (e.g., Figure 2, page 6476) for various anti-cancer drugs in 20 patients (Abstract). Kihara et al also teaches the classification of esophageal tumor cells based on gene expression data, determination of therapy, and prediction of patient outcome (e.g., the entire Discussion section on pages 6477-6478). Thus, the claimed methods embrace the methods of Kihara et al.

Claims 1-12, 15-19, and 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Scherf et al (Nature Genetics 24: 236 (2000)). Scherf et al teaches analysis of gene expression profiles by using a protein expression database (e.g., the paragraph bridging the columns on page 236) in connection with cancer cells' response to anti-cancer drugs (e.g., Abstract, Figures 1 and 2, and Table 1). Thus, the claimed methods embrace the methods of Scherf et al.
